

COMIC CRAFT

Project Development Phase

The Project Development Phase is where the actual Comic Craft project is created. The approved script and storyboard are transformed into finished comic pages. The team creates characters and backgrounds, arranges panels, adds dialogue and captions, and includes sound effects and other visual elements. The pages are reviewed and improved during development to maintain a consistent style and clear storytelling. At the end of this phase, a complete comic draft is produced.